Regent's University London

Are you a Syrian refugee or asylum seeker in the UK? Have you lost a loved one in the war, or on your way into Europe? Do you know somebody who fits this description? If yes, then this study wants to hear your voice. I am a doctoral researcher in Psychology. My research aims to document and analyse the story of your loss as you experienced it. This information would be a valuable addition to psychological literature, by helping psychologists to understand your pain through your own voice.
